

NATADORA

PAVILION SOFA

by cameron foggo

Designing the Pavilion sofa, Cameron Foggo challenged the conventional wisdom about how a slip-cover sofa should look. In a category dominated by unremarkable, traditional shapes, Foggo wanted to explore if a more considered design with architectural form and lightness could be applied to create something new and fresh. The key elements of a loose-fitting removable cover, welcoming soft cushions and a casual attitude are retained, but enhanced with a well-defined profile, and elevated on a slim external oak frame, to bring a new elegance to coastal interior design language.

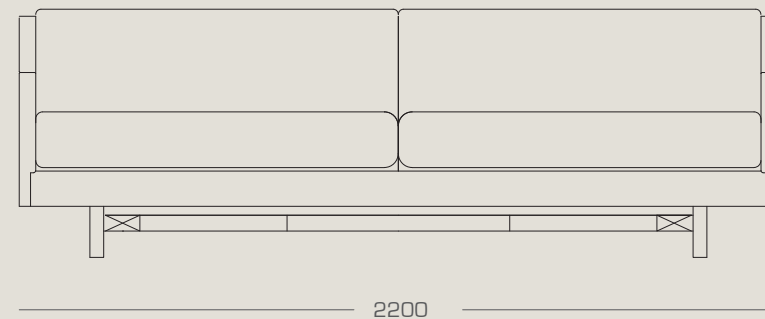

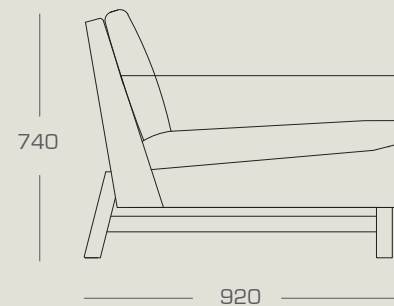

AVAILABLE IN THE FOLLOWING CONFIGURATIONS

pavilion sofa
2200W x 920D x 740H

solid New Zealand pine /no-zag springs and elastic seatbelt timber base frame in american oak, or american oak stained black.

filling : high density polyurethane foam, duck feather and fiber fully removable cover.

see our fabric and leather sample box for available options

NATADORA

